

If Only I Could Tell You

Your love for me is a ship,
Sailing across the sea, never stopping.
If only I could tell you,
How I miss this love.

Your toothless grin, your twinkling eyes,
Your heard shaking as you laugh.
If only I could tell you,
How I remember your every detail.

Your gleaming eyes, your satisfied smile,
A shiny gold cup in your wrinkled hands.
If only I could tell you,
How pride had enveloped me like a warm blanket.

Your doleful eyes as I shrieked at you,
Your heart weighting when you thought you failed me-
If only I could tell you,
How guilt had clawed my heart.

Now lying here, eyes closed,
Your soul drifting towards Elysium.
If only I could tell you,
How I appreciate your love for me.
