

Catching a Thief

Author: Chan Bo Wen

Illustrated by: Karina Lai

One day, Bill and Joe walked past a jewellery shop. In the shop window, there were watches, jewels and rings. They looked at the shop window and admired the jewellery.

Suddenly, a man walked up to the window. The man looked very suspicious and unfriendly. The man had a brick in his hand and he used it to break the window! He took diamonds, sapphires and priceless watches. When Bill and Joe saw this, they chased the man and jumped on him and hit him. There were many other people in the street. Instead of helping the boys, they just stood there and laughed.

Just then, a “policeman” came along. He pointed at the camera and the director. He also told the boys that the “thief” was an actor and they were shooting a film. Bill and Joe felt very embarrassed. They said sorry to the director and promised not to interrupt them the next time he was shooting a film.

